When students celebrated education and culture

This was a day that celebrated history, evolution, inspiration and education. Dr Jaimini Bhagwati, former Indian High Commissioner to the UK presided over the 17th Founder's Day celebrations of The Sagar School, held on December 3. He was accompanied by his wife, Rita Bhagwati.

Giving away trophies and certificates to the meritorious students, he urged the children to read the biographies of leaders such as Mahatma Gandhi, Sardar Patel and B R Ambedkar, and draw inspiration from their lives and experiences.

Chairperson Rosemary Sagar announced the promotion of the officiating principal, Dr Deepak Bisht to the position of principal. She praised his contribution to the school since he joined two and a half years ago. She also appreciated the campus culture of encouraging students to develop an inquisitive mind. Director Sharmistha Julka spoke of the importance of value education being imparted at The Sagar School including lessons in embracing adversity, non-discrimination and respect, social etiquette, respecting and protecting the environment.

An annual report was presented by Dr Bisht. He applauded the contribution of his colleagues to educate, empower and establish a second home for the students.

The audiences cheered at the cultural programme, Kala Manthan, which included medley of songs and dances, plays and a cultural couture show where the school's students, from 22 states and 7 countries, walked the ramp in traditional costumes. The exhibition too garnered praise. The dean of pastoral care, Lt Col (Retd) SP Sharma presented the vote of thanks.
