FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S PERSPECTIVE

"There are not more than five musical notes, yet the combinations of these five give rise to more melodies than can ever be heard.

There are not more than five primary colours, yet in combination they produce more hues than can ever been seen.

There are not more than five cardinal tastes, yet combinations of them yield more flavours than can ever be tasted." - Sun Tzu

AWARD OF EXCELLENCE

Kanika Khokhran, class X writes...

Founder's day 2015 was themed 'We are the world' and was one of the most appreciated Founder's day event. It was a matter of great honour and pride that being in class X, I got a chance to be one of the hosts of this extravagant event. As we stepped on stage, my heart was pounding and all I could think was what if I trip on the stage or forget my lines? But the moment we got on stage, we knew we were going to dazzle the show and have a fantabulous time. The most memorable moment was announcing the Award of Excellence for my mother Mrs. Geeta Khokhran.

I learned a lot of new things and found a friend in my co-host Ephraim Chishi, class XI. Founder's Day 2015 will forever remain fresh in my memories.

Archana Yengkhom, class XI shares....

Receiving an award is always wonderful as it not only fills us with a sense of awe but also motivates us to strive harder. However, receiving the award for being an outstanding student on this Founder's day was different as this time I didn't receive it for myself but for my parents who sitting in the audience very proudly captured the entire moment. It felt special as they say "The best thing in the world is to see your parents smile and the second best thing is to know that you are the reason behind it."

Afterwards, I was warmly congratulated by my teachers and friends. Such moments are indeed beautiful memories to be savoured and cherished forever. I have received some great inspirational books and novels which I am really enjoying reading!!!

Astronomy club news

Mr. Ajay Talwar our visiting astronomer writes:

Cassiopeia – The Queen in the sky

The Myth – The legendary figure Cassiopeia is famous for her role in one of the most memorable stories of Greek mythology-the tale of Andromeda. Cassiopeia’s ill-

-considered comment brought about a chain of events that culminated in the creation of a constellation. Cassiopeia was the wife of Cepheus (Cepheus was a king of Ethiopia). The royal pair had a lovely daughter who was named Andromeda.

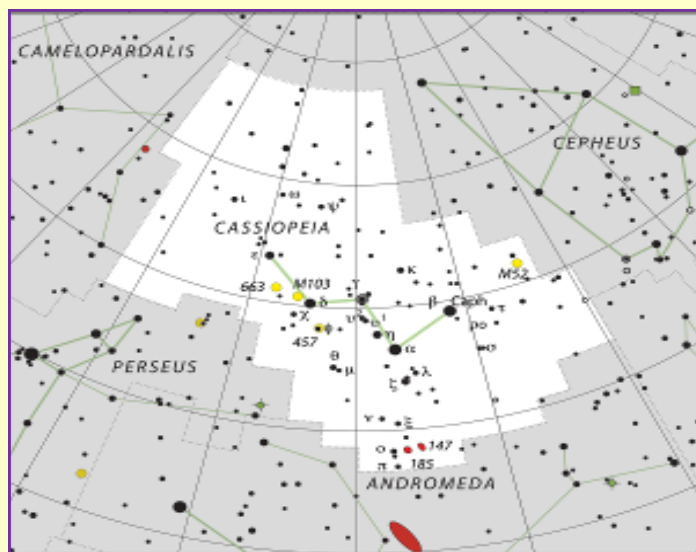

Our story begins with a fateful mistake. One day, Cassiopeia proclaimed that she was so beautiful that her appearance put the Nereids to shame. The Nereids were enchanting sea nymphs, and they were naturally divinely radiant in both face and form. Not surprisingly, the Nereids were insulted by Cassiopeia’s boast.

They shared their displeasure with Poseidon, the Greek God of the Sea. Poseidon decided that this expression of mortal vanity and hubris was too much to bear, and so he came up with a suitable punishment. The Sea God therefore sent a monster-which is described sometimes as a giant serpent-to seek revenge.

Poseidon's sea monster destroyed the land. King Cepheus was horrified by the turn of events, and consulted an oracle to learn how to pacify the anger of the Gods. He was told that the only way to stop the destruction and appease the monster was to offer his daughter, Andromeda, as a form of payment. Cepheus complied. Andromeda was then chained to a rock and left as an offering to the serpent. And the king's daughter would have been sea monster bait had it not been for the sudden (and fortuitous) appearance of the dashing hero Perseus. Indeed, Perseus eventually succeeded in rescuing Andromeda from a most unappealing fate.

However, the story of Cassiopeia does not quite end with the rescue of Andromeda. For legend has it that the vain Cassiopeia did ultimately achieve star status. She was transformed into the constellation that bears her name, and this group of stars reminds us forever of Cassiopeia's somewhat dubious contribution to Greek myth.

Map of Cassiopeia-Cassiopeia constellation is located in the northern sky. The constellation was first catalogued by the Greek astronomer Ptolemy in the 2nd century. It is easily recognizable in the sky because of its distinctive W shape. Cassiopeia is the 25th largest constellation in the night sky, occupying an area of 598 square degrees.

The neighbouring constellations are Andromeda, Camelopardalis, Cepheus, Lacerta, and Perseus. Cassiopeia has three stars with known planets and contains two Messier objects: M103 and M52. The brightest star in the constellation is Schedar, Alpha Cassiopeiae. Cassiopeia contains several notable deep sky objects, the supernova remnant Cassiopeia A, the star-forming cloud popularly known as the Pacman Nebula, and the White Rose Cluster.

Junior students of Astronomy Club took up the constellation project and shot several constellations in the sky. Here is the image of constellation Cassiopeia shot by the students. The image also shows Andromeda Galaxy in the field of view.

The illustration, map and image taken by the students of Cassiopeia were displayed at the Founder's Day Exhibition along with other constellation images photographed by students.

RACE TOWARDS EXCELLENCE

LITTLE CHAMPS

Yepekali Lois Chishi, class VII says...

Participating in the cross country run was a very exciting experience for me. When I started running outside the campus, I was behind others but I decided not to give up and kept on running. The other girls soon started losing their stamina and I took advantage of the same. I kept my speed constant and my friends and teachers were motivating me. Just as I was about to reach the finishing line at the School gate, the thought of my house master, Ms. Shipra Bahl who expected me to excel, struck me. Maintaining my speed, I crossed the finishing line and came first. My best friend Meme, class VII came second. She was sad but was proud of me, and I was happy for that. We were awarded with medals and certificates by the chief guest Mr. B. M. Veranwal, Chartered Accountant.

THE WORLD OF HOSPITALITY

WORDS AND STROKESMysteries of the Blue Ocean

The crystal blue ocean, calm, pure, divine and serene is a loving father who is always looking after his children - the sea creatures.

Whenever I look at the ocean, I get so keen to know about the mysteries these waves hide, sometimes willing to spill the beans when they crash to the shore and then changing their mind and rushing back to the ocean. Sometimes jumping up and down and sometimes swinging back and forth while playing around with the wind.

This deep blue ocean gets its life when heavens cry, and this heavenly cry makes the oceans immortal.

-Akula Bisht, class X

Blue Ocean

*Dawn is beautified with the sparkle of her water,
Night is enhanced with voice of her wave,
On one hand, her wrath can cause disaster,
On the other, she can be as silent as a grave,*

*She is the mistress of the water bearers,
She is a blissful lady which has histories drowned
within her,
Underneath her vast blue robes are unimaginably
beautiful creatures,*

*She tries to unleash herself from the grounds,
To unite with her issue of same sire,
Her blue sister has no bounds,
But she is tied with an invisible wire,*

*She is transient - in colour and sire,
One day she has shades of blue,
The next day she is racing for the coastline,*

*Deep down she has those priceless gems,
For which many pirates faced their deaths,
But a day will arrive when she will be gone,
As the mundane world respects not at all,
She is another country less woman,
And she is none other than the 'Blue Ocean.'*
