The Sagar School campus was a hub of activity and enthusiasm during the three-day annual art fest - Kalasagar - a confluence of performing and creative arts. Uma Jain and Uday Jain, of the oldest art gallery in India, Dhoomimal, presided over the function, and were welcomed by the officiating principal, Dr Deepak Raj Bisht. Noted art experts and the school's teachers conducted workshops in theatre, music, dance, creative art, pottery, Madhubani, fabric and glass paintings and also movie making. Women and children from underprivileged communities and local schools also participated in the event. The chief guests praised the event, appreciating the initiative taken by the Sagarians. After praising the efforts put in for the development of students, the chief guests announced two art scholarships. Sharmistha Julka, the director, motivated the children to keep up their spirit of creativity. She also emphasized the role of art in enhancing creative thinking, conceptualization and expression.
